CW's arrow hits trio for 'Valentine' series

By Nellie Andreeva
and Kimberly Nordyke

Kristoffer Polaha, Autumn Reeser and Robert Baker have been cast in the CW's new dramedy series "Valentine, Inc."

Meanwhile, Kristin Dattilo has booked a recurring role on Showtime's "Dexter," Nicole Steinwedell has joined CBS' "The Unit" as a guest star/potential recurring, and Christina Ricci has signed on for three episodes of TNT's "Saving Grace."

"Valentine" revolves around Greek gods living among us. Gersh-repped Polaha ("Miss Guided") will play Danny, aka Eros. Baker will play Leo, aka Hercules. Reeser ("The O.C.") will play Phoebe, aka the Goddess of the Oracle at Delphi. She is repped by APA and Kritzer/Levine/Wilkins.

On "Unit," Steinwedell will play Bridget Sullivan. CBS brass announced the addition of the character on the military drama at its May upfront presentation as part of the network's emphasis on stronger female characters.

On "Dexter," Dattilo will play Detective Barbara Gianna, a tough vice cop, for at least five episodes. She is repped by Stone Manners and Kritzer/Levine/Wilkins.

On "Grace," Ricci will play a young detective who temporarily partners with Grace (Holly Hunter).

Ricci is repped by ICM and Management 360. THR
